

When I kissed her in the parking lot, I knew she was dead. When someone doesn't bother to control their own lives, they are dead. I was dead...for the rest of my life.

And time doesn't change anything...time is irrelevant. Time is something stupid people use to try to measure their lives. When an effect can last eons.

Of course entropy, because all things do die.

The scientist at CERN have discovered other dimensions. Most people know the basic four. Height, length, depth, and time. Three absolutes and a variable. Then there are those that believe in a fifth dimension, a Quantum Hologram. The holy grail of mystics and spiritualist. And others.

The other dimensions were thought to be of great significant value. That and the ability to tune to a dimensions frequency, made the urge to investigate, mankind's prime concern. But with honest inquisitively, man can still fail to see the truth. Even fail to see the effect the truth can have over man. So while mankind watched, a change came over the world.

One day a great calm came over the world, came over mankind. There was peace, and harmony. Every man and woman felt it that day. It was the topic of every video news program, in every country of the world. But, what had happened? Could anyone explain what had happened? Had mankind suddenly evolved into an ascended state of being? Scientist and doctors, tested everyone and everything. Everyone talked about it, but no one was able to explain it. Mankind excepted it, as one of the great mysteries of existence.

Then a man, just outside of Pocatello Idaho, realized something about the new level of consciousness. Something that at first he wasn't sure could be real, to be that one truth mankind failed to see, time and again. Or saw, and denied.

As time passed, the man was able to spread his thought on what had happened to mankind. The man told everyone what he thought had caused the great change of behavior among them. He told them, that when the scientist opened the portal to the fifth dimension. The cosmic consciousness was able to enter this dimension. Something that had never happened before. So the cosmic consciousness was able to allow mankind to understand, that we are the good or evil that we chose to be.

And mankind made the right choice.

By
Michael Steven Scott
Aka
Cat Springs